Pastor's Corner

Dear Brothers and Sisters,

This weekend, we hear the familiar story of the master who gave talents to his servants and went off on a journey. It is a story told by Jesus and is often interpreted as a lesson on the responsible use of one's abilities, resources, and gifts.

The master of this parable is clearly meant to represent Jesus. The servants are those who follow Christ. Similar to the parable, Jesus also has given responsibility to His followers, and like the parable, He, the master, has promised to one day return.

This parable often is understood as a lesson about the importance of wisely using one's God-given talents and resources and not squandering them out of fear or complacency. It emphasizes the idea that those who are faithful and responsible in using what they've been given will be rewarded, while those who are negligent or fearful will face consequences.

Before Jesus ascended into heaven, He told His disciples, "If I go and prepare a place for you, I will come back and take you to myself, so that where I am you may also be." (John 14:3) But just because Jesus is physically absent from the earth, doesn't mean His followers are given the freedom to sit back and do nothing.

Just like the master in the parable, Jesus has entrusted His servants with his ministry of spreading the Gospel, loving others, feeding the hungry and caring for the poor.

Jesus has made Christians participants in His ministry. They are also stewards of the things Christ values most. Jesus has entrusted His followers with His greatest treasures, making them caretakers of His mission on Earth. This is an incredible responsibility; one Christians should take seriously.

A wise and faithful steward will be faithful to his master's possessions and take care of what he's been given because he knows the master will eventually return.

Let us go forth and fulfill the master's mission in the world as wise and faithful stewards of His great gift of faith!

God bless,
Fr. Smith

The Parable of the Talents

Before he left on a journey, a master entrusted his servants with some talents (a type of money).

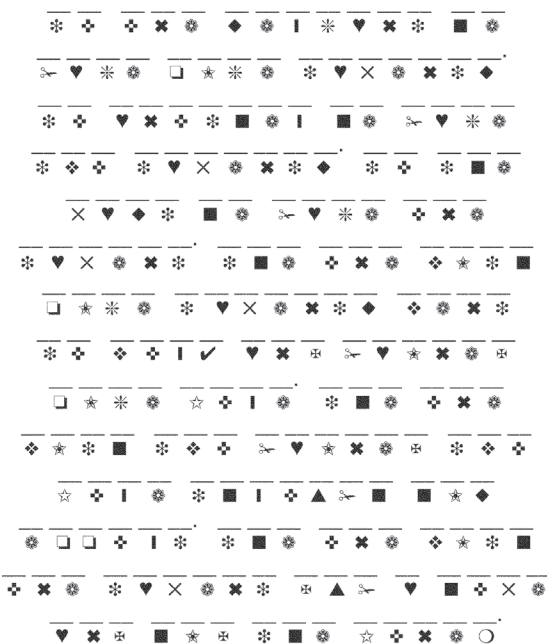

Find 15 things that are different in the bottom picture.

He distributed the money to them in a certain manner. What did they do with it?

Use the code to finish this story.

The master was displeased with the 3rd servant who had hidden the money. He took it from him and gave it to the servant who had the most.

Write the words from the coins on the correct lines.

When the master returned, he called his servants to him to settle his accounts. His words to the first two servants are below.

Circle the underlined words in the puzzle.

"Well done, good and faithful servant!

You have been faithful with a few things; I will put you in charge of many things. Come and share your master's happiness!"

CHILD OF THE LIGHT

Reflection on Matthew 25:14-30

Today's parable follows immediately upon last week's story of the wise and foolish virgins in Matthew's Gospel; they both direct our attention to the last days and the Lord's coming. This story highlights for us the truth that there will be some kind of final accounting for our lives. As the servants report to their master on their use of "talents" entrusted to them, so each of us will be required to give an account of our lives to the Master, our Almighty God.

The affirmation of the second reading that we are "children of light," and the first reading's praise of "a worthy wife," and by implication, lifting up the gifts of all women, grab our attention. Perhaps these descriptions of our identity and purpose which flow from our divine inheritance (created in the image and likeness of God) can function as beacons for self-assessment, or an examination of conscience.

What does it mean to be a child of the light? In Baptism, we each "received the light of Christ... to be kept burning brightly." More than ever, the world needs the gifts of women and men to be in service of the Kingdom of God. With Baptism as the source of our mission and common priesthood, we spend our talents, our gifts, our very lives in service of God's reign, the Light that is conquering the darkness of this world.

SAINT ANDREW DUNG-LAC AND COMPANIONS

Feast Day: November 24

Andrew Dung-Lac, a Catholic convert ordained to the priesthood, was one of 117 people martyred in Vietnam between 1820 and 1862. Members of the companions group gave their lives for Christ in the 17th, 18th, and 19th centuries, and received beatification during four different occasions between 1900 and 1951. All were canonized during the papacy of Saint John Paul II.

Christianity came to Vietnam through the Portuguese. Severe persecutions were launched at least three times in the 19th century. During the six decades after 1820, between 100,000 and 300,000 Catholics were killed or subjected to great hardship. Foreign missionaries martyred in the first wave included priests of the Paris Mission Society, and Spanish Dominican priests and tertiaries.

In 1832, Emperor Minh-Mang banned all foreign missionaries, and tried to make all Vietnamese deny their faith by trampling on a crucifix. Like the priest-holes in Ireland during English persecution, many hiding places were offered in homes of the faithful.

Persecution broke out again in 1847, when the emperor suspected foreign missionaries and Vietnamese Christians of sympathizing with a rebellion led by one of his sons. The last of the martyrs were 17 laypersons, one of them a 9-year-old, executed in 1862. That year a treaty with France guaranteed religious freedom to Catholics, but it did not stop all persecution.

During the Vietnamese war, Catholics again suffered in the north, and again moved to the south in great numbers. It may help people who associate Vietnam only with a 20th-century war to realize that the cross has long been a part of the lives of the people of that country. Even as some people ask again the unanswered questions about the United States' involvement and disengagement, the faith rooted in Vietnam's soil proves hardier than the forces that willed to destroy it.
